

Awareness Programme on Scientific Pig Farming Conducted at Kamorta

Sri Vijaya Puram | September 23, 2026

The Department of Animal Husbandry & Veterinary Services recently conducted an awareness training programme on pig farming under the National Livestock Mission (NLM) at Chota Enaka, Kamorta, with the participation of 14 farmers.

Addressing the participants as the chief guest, Mr. Mosses, 1st Captain, encouraged the farmers to actively participate in the training and apply the knowledge gained to improve pig production and enhance household income.

During the programme, farmers were provided basic guidance on scientific pig farming practices, including proper housing, balanced feeding, breeding management, hygiene, disease prevention and overall farm management. The session also highlighted the importance of value addition of pork products such as bacon, ham and sausages as a means of increasing farmers' income.

The programme concluded with a positive response from the participating farmers, who expressed keen interest in adopting scientific livestock-rearing practices to improve production and support sustainable livelihoods.
